Frank Zeidler

Frank Zeidler was born in Milwaukee on 20th September, 1912. He was educated at the University of Wisconsin, and converted to Socialism after reading the works of Eugene Debs and Norman Thomas.

Zeidler joined the Socialist Party and in 1941 was elected to the Milwaukee Board of School Directors.

Frank Zeidler was Milwaukee's third Socialist mayor. He held the office for 12 years, beginning in 1948. During the Zielder administration, the City of Milwaukee doubled in size. Approximately 3200 public housing units were constructed, streets were improved, educational TV premiered, new harbor lands were purchased, a new museum was in the works, library branches and additions were added, and docks, port facilities, bridges, and highways were built. Milwaukee gained the reputation as one of the cleanest governments in the country.

Zeidler later served as National Chair of the Socialist Party USA and became the Party's candidate for president of the United States in 1976.
